

North Ronaldsay Trust

Sheep Dyke Warden

35 hours per week • Salary £21,840

The North Ronaldsay Trust is looking to appoint a Sheep Dyke Warden to restore North Ronaldsay's unique sheep dyke to ensure that it is fit for purpose. This post will run for an initial period of three years.

The Sheep Dyke Warden will be responsible for carrying out a pre-determined programme of rebuilding and repairs to the sheep dyke, and be responsible for managing and carrying out repairs to the temporary fencing erected where the sheep dyke has been damaged, and to coordinate and work with groups of volunteer dyke builders.

The successful applicant will have a good level of physical fitness, have good communication skills and experience of dry stone dyking and project management is desirable. A willingness to work constructively with the local community is essential and the applicant must be able to work on his or her own initiative.

For a copy of the job description and application form please visit

www.northronaldsaytrust.com

If you would like to find out more please contact

vacancies@northronaldsaytrust.com

The closing date for applications is Friday 9th August 2019. Interviews will be held from the end of August.

This post is funded by:

A company limited by guarantee, Registered in Scotland, Company Number SC211065.

A Scottish Charity, Charity number SC050545 North Ronaldsay Trust

